7

Note: "t" following a page number indicates a table; "f" indicates a figure; "n" indicates a note. Abbott, R. A., 341 Abstraction development of, 114, 133–34 grammatical metaphor, 127–28 and nominalization, 123, 125 and noncongruence, 115 Academic subjects. See Genre Adolescent writing development. See Writing development, in adolescence Adult writing development, in adulthood Affluence, 313 Agency in adolescence, 183–84 and adolescent writers, 203–6 defined, 182 and learning, 312 as realized through language, 184 Age-related benchmarking, 102–3 Ahearn, L. M., 182, 184 Applebee, A. N., 152, 158, 183,	Atwell, Nancie, 234 Australia, 40 Baddeley, A., 295, 296 Balanced writing instruction, 152, 158 Baltes, P. B., 338 Bay Area Writing Project, 232 Bazerman, Charles, 15 Beaufort, A., 342 Beers, S. F., 139 Beliefs, 292–94 Benchley, Robert, 283 Berninger, V., 25, 341 Boekaerts, M., 302 Boscolo, P., 167 Boynton, Bob, 234 Brain systems and longitudinal studies, 344, 356 and writing development, 25, 314 Brandt, Deborah, 331, 337 Bronfenbrenner, Urie, 245, 246, 262–63 Bulté, B., 145n13 Burke, Jim, 235 Bus, A. G., 63 Cain, C., 184
as realized through language, 184 Age-related benchmarking, 102–3	Bulté, B., 145n13 Burke, Jim, 235
Anearn, L. M., 182, 184 Applebee, A. N., 152, 158, 183, 187, 206, 213, 214 Assessment, 43–44, 253–54, 376–81 Attention, 295 Attitudinal meaning, 117–18, 126–27, 133–34	Cain, C., 184 Carlisle, J., 341 Carroll, L. A., 339 Childhood writing development. See Writing development, in childhood Christie, F., 40, 112, 340

Clay, M. M., 63 Clifford, G. J., 212–13	vs. noncongruence, 124, 128 Content, of writing, in early
Cochran-Smith, M., 237 Cognitive overload, 287	childhood, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t
Cognitive overload, 207	Contexts, 22–24, 103–4
attention, 295	Control mechanisms, 294–99
beliefs, 292–94	Crossley, S. A., 140
components of, 288–303, 289f	Curriculum. See also Teachers
conceptualization, 300	and assessments, 43–44
control mechanisms, 294–99	and childhood writing develop-
emotions, 302	ment, 103–4
executive control, 296–99	customizing, 219–25
"hijacking" of, into writing	defined, 210
processes, 14–15, 33–35	effective, 142–43
ideation, 300	implications of research for,
knowledge, 290–92	376–81
limitations of, 285–88	instructional time for writing
long-term memory, 289-94	in, 213–15
modulators, 301–3	and multilingual writers,
personality traits, 303	222–25
physiological states, 303	multiplicity of, 215–16
production processes, 299–301	operational vs. official, 210
reconceptualization, 301	and participatory writing,
as shaping written products,	217–18
284–85	and positive deviance, 239–40
transcription, 301	of reading vs. writing, 212–13
translation, 300–301	role of, in writing develop-
working memory, 295–96	ment, 39–41
Cole, M., 27, 309	students as focus of, 22528
Collaboration. See also	and technology, 218-19
Relationality; Writing	Dealine Hammand I 220 220
community	Darling-Hammond, L., 228, 229, 232
cross-generational, 168–69
in early childhood writing, 57, 61	Darwin, Charles, 308 Deaf writers, 13, 144n2
and longitudinal studies, 354	Derewianka, B., 40, 340
in workplace writing, 252	Development. See Writing and writers' identities, 23–24	development
and writing curriculum,	Dias, P., 342
217–18	Directionality categories, 71–73,
in writing development, 9–10	72t, 73f, 82–84, 83t
Complexity, 24–27, 104	Disability, 30–31, 154–56, 166–
Conceptualization, 300	68, 170
Congruence	Dispositions, 262–67
defined, 114–15	Domain knowledge, 142–43, 291
•	3 , , , ,

Du Bois, J. W., 189	in study of writers with learn-
Dyson, A. H., 34–35, 63, 64,	ing disabilities, 167-68
341	writers' perceptions of, 194–95
	writing skills required by, 123,
Educational policy, 102-3,	130–32
376–81	Goal orientation, 293
Efficacy, 292–93	Goodman, Yetta, 56
Eisner, E. W., 237	Graham, Steve, 15, 213, 215
Elder, Glen, 255–57	Grammatical metaphor, 127–28,
Embodiment, 8	133, 136, 138
Emergent-literacy perspective	Gray, James, 232
and dimensions of writing	II 11: 1 M A IZ 110 125
development, 373–74	Halliday, M. A. K., 118, 135,
of early childhood writing,	136–37, 144n1, 144n3
55–57	Halpern, Jerry, 233–34
and longitudinal studies,	Handwriting, 216
340–41	Harrington, Liz, 217–18, 225–26
and Write Start! study, 103-4	Harvard Study of Adult
Emotions, 302	Development, 334–35,
English, as academic subject, 123	346
Evaluation. See Assessment	Harvard Study of Writing, 339
Executive control, 296–99	Haswell, R. H., 340
Expectancy-value theories, 292	Hawken, L. S., 213
Extrinsic motivation, 293	Haycock, Kati, 228-29
	Hayes, J. R., 152, 168, 295
Fayol, M., 341	Hildreth, G., 100
Ferreiro, E., 63	Historical conditions, 31–32,
Flowers, L. S., 152	255–62. See also
Form categories, 67, 68–69t,	Technology
70–71, 80–82, 80t	History, as academic subject,
Franklin, Benjamin, 312	129–30
Freedman, A., 342	Holland, D. C., 184
Freyre, Tracey, 222	Housen, A., 145n13
Friedrich, L., 235	Human development
	Bronfenbrenner's ecological
Galbraith, D., 303	perspective on, 245–46,
Gallagher, Kelly, 235	262–63
Galvan, N., 167	effects of historical events on,
Gawande, Atul, 238-39	255–262
Gelati, C., 167	life-course perspective of,
Genetics, 314	245–46
Genre	life-course vs. lifespan views,
and complexity of writing	247
development, 26	role as concept, 250–55
and growth in writing, 40	Hunt, K. W., 340
student understanding of, 143	Hypothesis testing, 56
	/ L 01112010 12011119, 00

INDEX

Ideation, 300 Identity and collaborative writing, 23–24 and efficacy, 292–93 and multilingual writers, 184 role of, in writing development, 152, 294 and variability, 29 Infection control, 238–39 Intentionality, 56–57, 61, 74–76, 75t, 84–85, 84t	Left-to-right directional patterns. See Directionality categories Lewis-Murphy, Zack, 220 Lexicogrammar, 144n1 LGBTQIA issues, 260–61 Lieberman, Ann, 231, 234 Life-course development. See Human development Linearity, 63–64 Listening skills, 290 Loban, W., 340
Interpersonal meaning, 141	Longitudinal studies
Intrinsic motivation, 293	age of initiation, 347–48
Inverness Research study, 230	attrition in, 346
•	benefits of, 327-29
Jago, Carol, 235	data categories, 351-57
James, K. H., 25	data collection, 348-50
Jao, R. J., 25	design of, 342-45
	Harvard Study of Adult Devel-
Kagan, J., 337	opment, 334–35
Kasten, W. C., 341	multidecade and lifespan,
Kellogg, R. T., 286	333–36
Kempthorne, Charley, 308	and neurology, 344, 356
Kennedy, Judy, 218–19, 226	overview of, 330–33
Kind, Stella, 260–61	in psychological development,
King, M. L., 341	336–38
Kiuhara, S. A., 213, 214–15	relationships between subjects
Knobel, M., 294	and researchers, 335, 346
	subject population and study
Labaree, D. F., 231	maintenance, 345–47
Lachicotte, W., 184	and technology, 344-45,
Langer, J. A., 213, 214	349–50, 354–55
Language development, 8-9,	Terman study, 333-34
37-38. See also Speech	of writing, 338–43
Leadership, 234–36	Long-term memory, 289–94
Learning	Luria, A. R., 64
through accumulated capital, 313	Lytle, S. L., 237
and agency, 312 experiential, 310–11 observational, 311	MacLean, Marion, 236–37 Maday, Corine, 227 Matsuda, P. K., 186
from others, 311–12	Matthews, G., 303
reciprocal relationship of,	Mayer, K. U., 247
with writing development,	McCarthy, P. M., 140
35–36	McIntosh, A., 144n3

McLaughlin, Milbrey, 231, 234 McNamara, D. S., 140 Medway, P., 342 Memory, long-term, 289–94 Memory, working, 295–96 Metacognition, 171 Modulators, 301–3 Mohr, Marian, 234, 236–37 Moje, E. B., 183 Molfese, V. J., 63 Moore, D. W., 183 "Motherese," 171 Motivation, 293 Multilingual writers. See also Deaf writers as adolescents, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 challenges encountered by, 38–39 cognitive resources of, 290 and curriculum, 222–25 identity work for, 184 use of abstraction, 125 variability of, 29 writing development of, 12–13, 135, 145n13 Multimodality, 26 Murphy, S., 233–34 Myhill, D., 138, 140 Nagy, W. E., 139, 341 National Commission on Writing, 218, 229, 230–31 National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI). See also Writing development, in adolescence	National Writing Project, 230 Nesselroade, J. R., 338 Neurology and longitudinal studies, 344, 356 and writing development, 25, 314 No Child Left Behind (NCLB), 213 Nominalization, 123–25, 133 Noncongruence. See also Abstraction vs. congruence, 124, 128 defined, 115 grammatical metaphor, 127–28, 136 Norms and normativity, 11–13, 102–3 Norris, J. M., 138 Noun groups and abstraction, 115 in adolescent writing, 140–41 examples of, in student writing, 121, 123–24 as indicator of development, 120–21, 133 Nouns, 33–34, 37 NSWI. See National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) Ochs, E., 189 O'Dowd, E., 125 Offen-Brown, Gail, 227 Olinghouse, N. G., 167 Oral language. See Speech Ortega, Alejandro, 244–45
stance analysis, 189–90	Overlapping-waves theory,
study background, 187–88, 188t	101–2
study methodology, 189–91, 190t	Pace, of development, 93 Paré, A., 342
study results, 191-203, 192f,	Penmanship, 216
193f, 197f, 199f, 201f, 202f	Performance avoidance goals, 293

INDEX

Perin, Dorothy, 215 Santangelo, T., 167 Perry, K., 272 Schleppegrell, M., 112, 340 Personality traits, 303 Schmidt, Anne, 251–52, 253 Petersen, T., 337 Schmidt, T., 331, 337 Physiological states, 303 School, 22–23, 184–85. See also Policy, 102–3, 376–81 Curriculum Positive deviance, 238–40 Schooler, C., 337 Posner, G., 210 Science, as academic subject, Poverty, 313 123, 130, 131–32 Preschoolers. See Writing Scribner, S., 309 development, in childhood Seesaw trajectories, 93–94 Problem solving, 238–40, 297 SFL. See Systemic functional Production processes, 299–301 linguistics (SFL) Professional development, Siegler, R. S., 101 229 - 31Sipe, L. R., 341 Skinner, D., 184 Punishment writing, 199, 199f Smith, M. A., 233–34 Purves, Alan, 39 Snyder, J., 228, 229 Quality of writing, 137–39 Social norms. See Norms and normativity Readence, J. E., 183 Social practices, 34–35 Readiness perspective, 55–56 Social status, 29–30 Reading Sociocultural perspective, 61–62, as cognitive resource, 290–91 167 curriculum as dominated by, Speech. See also Language vs. writing, 212–13 development defined, 56 as cognitive resource, 290 reciprocal relationship of, with development of, vs. writing, writing development, 36, 37 - 3855-56 and early childhood writing Reconceptualization, 301 development, 105 Recursivity, 63-64, 101-2 as foundation for writing, Register, 144n3 36–37, 113, 135–36 Reitzle, M., 337 vs. writing, in SFL, 112 Relationality. See also and writing development, Collaboration 33 - 34and longitudinal studies, 335 Stanford Study of Writing, 339 and technology, 32 Sternglass, M. S., 340 of writing, 27 Sternin, Jerry, 239 Rentel, V., 341 Sternin, Monique, 239 Steward, Samuel, 283-84 Researchers, teachers as, 236–37 Robinson, K., 331, 337 St. John, M., 230 Rogers, P. M., 339 Stokes, L., 230, 236 Rogoff, B., 61–62, 102 Stress, 303 Rowe, D. W., 341 Strevens, P., 144n3

Students, 225-28. See also	sharing knowledge and exper-
Multilingual writers;	tise, 231–34
Writers	as writers, 234–36
Sulzby, E., 55, 56, 64	Teale, W. H., 55, 56
Systemic functional linguistics	Teberosky, A., 63
(SFL)	Technology. See also Historical abstraction in, 114–15, 123,	conditions
125, 127–28, 133–34	access to, 218
attitudinal meaning, 117–18, 126–27, 133–34	and collaborative writing, 32, 217–18, 276
congruence, defined, 114–15	and curriculum, 218–19
congruence vs. noncongruence, 124	and human development, 256–59
developmental progression in	and longitudinal studies,
writing, 114–17, 115f,	344–45, 349–50, 354–55
133–35, 134f	multimodality of modern writ-
embedded clauses, 139-40	ing, 26
grammatical metaphor,	and writing development, 10,
127–28, 133, 136, 138	32, 104–5
interpersonal meaning, 141	Terman study, 333
"lexicogrammar," 144n1	Teti, D. M., 331, 337
and multilingual writers, 125,	Transcription, 301
135	Translation, 168, 300–301
nominalization, 123–25, 133	Treiman, R., 342
noncongruence, defined, 115	T-unit analysis, 138–39
noun groups, 120–21, 123–24, 133	Weilland C. E. 246
overview of, 111–12	Vaillant, G. E., 346
register, 144n3	Variability in early childhood writing
as theoretical framework,	development, 63, 64, 87,
141–43	92–97, 98–102, 104
T-unit analysis, 138–39	and overlapping-waves theory,
use of Reference, 119–20, 123,	101–2
133, 145n10	overview of, 14
use of Theme, 118-23, 124,	and writers' identities, 29
133, 140–41, 145n9	of writing, by genre, 123,
views of, 136–41	130–32
and writing quality, 137-39	of writing development, 28–31
	Vaughan, S., 341
Teachers. See also Curriculum	Vondracek, F. W., 337 engagement of, 379–80
importance of skilled, 228–29	Warrick, Margaret, 257–59
professional development of,	Whitney, Anne, 235
229–31	Whittaker, R., 128
as researchers, 236–38	Wikipedia, 308

Wilde, S., 341	progress narrative, 88–92,
Wilson, J., 167	89–90t, 91f
Winsor, D. A., 342	seesaw trajectories, 93–94
Working memory, 295–96	and variability, 92–97
Workplace writing, 27, 250–55,	Writing
266–67	definitions of, 10, 21, 56
Writers	distributed location of, 27
cognitive architecture of,	longitudinal studies of, 338-43
283–303	as punishment, 199, 199f
self-beliefs of, 292–94	quality of, 137–39
study of learning-disabled,	relationality of, 27
154, 155–56, 166–68, 170	as shortchanged in curriculum,
study of typically developing,	212–13
155–58, 159–60t, 160–	vs. speech, in SFL, 112
63f, 163–65, 170	speech as foundation for, 113,
teachers as, 234–36	135–36
Writer(s)-within-community	workplace, 27, 250–55,
model	266–67
cognitive architecture of writ-	Writing community. See also
ers, 283–303	Collaboration; Writer(s)- interaction between community and writers, 304–7	within-community model actions, 276–77
mechanisms promoting devel-	collective history, 278–79
opment, 307–13	components of, 274–79, 280f
overview of, 272–73	defined, 273–74, 282
writing community, 273–83,	members, 275
280f	operation, 279–83, 280f
Write Start! study. See also	physical and social environ-
Writing development, in	ments, 278
childhood	products, 277
age-group patterns, 79–87,	purpose, 274
80t, 83t, 84t, 86t	tools, 276
directionality categories,	Writing development
71–73, 72t, 73f, 82–84,	cross-generational collabora-
83t	tion in, 168–69
form categories, 67–71,	definitions of, 6, 7
68–70t, 80–82, 80t	dimensions of, 371–76
intentionality categories,	as embodied act, 8
74–76, 75t, 84–85, 84t	and identity, 152, 294
message content categories,	lack of research on, 4, 21
76–79, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t	and language development, 8-9
overview of, 65–66	mono- vs. multilingual, 12–13
pace of learning, 93	multiple dimensions of, 10–11
photo-caption task, 58–60, 58f	and neurology, 25, 314
policy implications of, 102–3	oral language as foundation
1 , 1	for, 36–37
	,

principles of, 22–41 reciprocal relationship of, with nonwriting processes, 35–36 relationality of, 9–10 as shift from speech into writing, 135–36 social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 contexts of, 103–4 directional patterns, 71, 72t, 73, 73f, 82–84, 83t emergent-literacy vs. readiness perspectives, 55–57 form categories, 67, 68–69t, 70–71, 80t intentionallity, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationallity of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability, 6, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Technology 10, 32 Techno	and policy, 376-81	and curriculum, 103-4 reciprocal relationship of, with nonwriting processes, 35–36 relationality of, 9–10 as shift from speech into writing, 135–36 social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Tomate emergent-literacy vs. readiness perspectives, 55–57 form categories, 67, 68–69t, 70–71, 80t intentionallity, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Writing development, in childhood, See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 nonwriting processes, 35–36 relationality of, 9–10 as shift from speech into writing, 135–36 social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 emergent-literacy vs. readiness perspectives, 55–57 form categories, 67, 68–69t, 70–71, 80t intentionallity, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183
relationality of, 9–10 as shift from speech into writing, 135–36 social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 perspectives, 55–57 form categories, 67, 68–69t, 70–71, 80t intentionallity, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspectives, 55–57 form categories, 67, 68–69t, 70–71, 80t intentionallity, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability, 66–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 131–92, 91 and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 63, 64, 87, relationality of, 9–10 as shift from speech into writing, 135–36 social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 form categories, 67, 68–69t, 70–71, 80t intentionality, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology
as shift from speech into writing, 135–36 social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 70–71, 80t intentionality, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 41 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303	relationality of, 9–10	form categories, 67, 68–69t,
ing, 135–36 social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 intentionality, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality, 56–57, 61, 74, 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183		70–71, 80t
social norms' effects on, 11–13 and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 75t, 76, 84–85, 84t learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303		intentionality, 56-57, 61, 74, and technology, 10, 32 Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 learning disabilities, 154 lifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 3, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303
Writing development, in adolescence. See also National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Iiifespan view of, 103–5 as linear vs. recursive, 63–64 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303	and technology, 10, 32	learning disabilities, 154
National Study of Writing Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84, 203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185–87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 message content categories, 76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t overlapping-waves theory of, 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303		lifespan view of, 103-5
Instruction (NSWI) and authorial agency, 183–84,	adolescence. See also	as linear vs. recursive, 63-64
and authorial agency, 183–84,	National Study of Writing	message content categories,
203–6 complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 101–2 overview of research in, 62–65, 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303	Instruction (NSWI)	76–77, 78–79t, 85–87, 86t
complexity of, 140 in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185- 87, 195-98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194-95 secondary school contexts for, 184-85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262-67 study of, 248-49 and workplace roles, 250-55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79-87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 overview of research in, 62-65, 151-56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89-90t, 91-92, 91f and reading, 55-56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93-94 SFL perspective on, 117-27 sociocultural perspective, 61-62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104-5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92-97, 98-102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130-32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303	and authorial agency, 183-84, in different subjects, 123 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 151–56 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303	203–6	101–2 and language density, 122 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 pace of, 93 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303 metacognition in, 171 and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 progress narrative, 88, 89–90t, 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183
and multilingual writers, 185– 87, 195–98, 197f, 204 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 91–92, 91f and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183	and language density, 122 and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 and reading, 55–56 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 and perceptions of genre, 194–95 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 relationality of, 57, 61 seesaw trajectories, 93–94 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303 secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183
secondary school contexts for, 184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 SFL perspective on, 117–27 sociocultural perspective, 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183
184–85 Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Writing development, in 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183
Writing development, in adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 61–62 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183	secondary school contexts for, adulthood dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 and speech, 105 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 dispositions for, 262–67 study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 and technology, 104–5 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183	Writing development, in study of, 248–49 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 variability of, 63, 64, 87, 92–97, 98–102, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 and workplace roles, 250–55 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Writing development, in childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Writing style, by genre, 123, 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 childhood. See also Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 130–32 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303 Systemic functional linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Writing tools, 32. See also Technology Young, J. P., 183 linguistics (SFL); Write Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Technology Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303 Start! study age-group patterns, 79–87, 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Young, J. P., 183 Zeidner, M., 303 age-group patterns, 79–87, Young, J. P., 183 80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Zeidner, M., 303		Technology
80t, 83t, 84t, 86t complexity of, 104 Zeidner, M., 303
complexity of, 104 Zeidner, M., 303		Young, J. P., 183
		7 . 1 . 1 . 202
contexts of, 103–4		Zeidner, M., 303
	contexts of, 103–4	